

CONCLUSIONS

This document outlines Grainger's commitment to the development of the Waterloooville MDA.

Grainger aspires to create a development where the quality of the built environment and the landscape of its public realm will be given a high priority. Through the two main design moves of repairing and connecting the intent is to develop a new sustainable community fully integrated with the existing one.

The provision of a new primary school, community facilities, play areas and sport pitches will bring significant improvements to the local context. A fully integrated network of pedestrian and cycle links will allow both new and existing residents to access easily all these facilities and the countryside beyond.

The sustainability strategies described in this document are aiming to create a truly sustainable community and to address directly the issue of Climate Change.
